Interior Design

Inspired by a simple photograph of a mountain scape, the interior design team designed Edgar's office to reflect a crisp, clean, white mountain of ice. The intent was to bring the outdoors in and create a grounded, inspiring space for employees to flourish. Given the competitive nature of Edgar's business, the final design had to leave a lasting impression on clients and employees. The space needed to echo the innovative and aspirational values of Edgar's mission. The team delivered a compelling and memorable space that ups the ante on alpine design and suggests that office space doesn't need to be prescriptive or constrained – it can be art, as well.
